AT SEASCAPE BEACH RESORT

Dear Friends,

As longtime fans and supporters of the Challenger tournament, Nordic Naturals is thrilled to be the title sponsor of this year's event, now in its 29th year. The Nordic Naturals Challenger Tournament will once again bring world-class tennis to our area, to the delight of local tennis fans, dedicated sponsors, and our local community.

As a leading manufacturer of omega-3s and other nutrients essential to health, Nordic Naturals understands and supports the unique nutritional needs of athletes—professional and amateur alike. We offer a select line of NSF Certified for Sport products that are used by many ATP touring pros, including 2014 Challenger champion and current No. 40 Marcos Baghdatis.

Nordic Naturals is happy to give back to the amazing community that has supported our company since our founding here in 1995. We participate in a wide variety of local events and causes, among which the Challenger is a personal favorite. This tournament is a natural fit not only because of my own fanatical love of tennis, but also in light of our company-wide commitment to empower people of all ages to live life better.

We are so proud and excited to partner in bringing this amazing event to Santa Cruz County in the spectacular setting of the Seascapes Sports Club.

In health,

Joar Opheim
CEO & Founder
Nordic Naturals®

Fellow Tennis Fans,

Santa Cruz County Bank is delighted to partner with Seascapes Sports Club and Nordic Naturals to present this year's Challenger tournament. We look forward to meeting Club Members while enjoying the talents of the top tennis players in the world.

As a community bank founded by local business professionals for the Santa Cruz community, we take great pride in serving local residents and businesses with their banking needs. Our entire staff is actively engaged in our community, serving as volunteers on a year-round basis on nonprofit boards and as fundraisers for charitable events. We look forward to volunteering throughout the week of our debut year as presenting sponsor of the Challenger and look forward to making new friendships.

It is an honor to be involved in supporting this tournament that brings professional tennis to our community. We congratulate all the athletes who have traveled from around the globe to compete in the 2016 Challenger and wish everyone good luck throughout the week.

Marcos Baghdatis

Healthy, Strong and as Determined as Ever

By: Hannah Stone

At the age of 20 years old, an unseeded player found himself up against world No. 1 Roger Federer in the finals of the 2006 Australian open. A decade has passed. The years have been filled with a good share of highs and lows, relentless emotion, impressive grand slam runs, plagues and perseverance, but through it all, at 31 years old, the humble man behind the career is feeling stronger than ever.

Very few players on the ATP Tour hold a résumé matching that of former No. 8 Marcos Baghdatis. His story is special. Tennis fans from all over the world developed a soft spot for him after one defining moment in 2006 when they found themselves rooting for the unseeded young-gun with the beaming smile and charming on-court persona.

Baghdatis' shining moments are only made greater through the tribulations he has overcome. It was after one of his toughest seasons three years ago, losing more matches than he had won, recording 13 first-round exits and battling several health issues, that Baghdatis captured the Aptos title on the road to redemption in 2014.

Two years later and sitting at No. 46 in the world, the Cypriot has not lost his competitive edge or his likeable spirit. He has had a recent string of impressive victories over highly ranked players on tour including No. 8 Tomas Berdych, No. 12 David Ferrer, No. 14 David Goffin, No. 26 Ivo Karlovic and No. 29 Sam Querrey.

But even more importantly, with each passing tournament, Baghdatis has remained completely healthy, allowing him to play consistently, week-in and week-out. "Together with my team, we find the balance as to how much time I need to spend on the court, in the gym, with the physio, just to keep my body in optimal shape to perform at its best when needed," he said.

Checking in with Baghdatis last year revealed that the relationship he fostered with Nordic Naturals during his time in Aptos also led to overwhelmingly positive changes in his health and fitness.

As a leading supplement company focused on raising quality standards, Nordic Naturals' high-performance NSF Certified for Sport products are free of banned substances. They are sold to and trusted by professional sports teams and college teams around the nation.

For an individual sport like tennis, however, athletes must find their own approach when it comes to dietary habits. "In terms of my health, It has been a game changer for me since I joined forces with Nordic Naturals," Baghdatis said. "Together with the team at Nordic Naturals, my personal doctor and medical team, we were able to find out exactly what was good for me to take and the results have been amazing. I have felt healthy, energetic, and my recovery has also increased greatly, benefiting me across the board.”

The game-changing results Baghdatis refers to are not by chance, “My team and the team at Nordic Naturals spent a great deal of time researching and understanding the science behind these products to pinpoint exactly how the products that Nordic Naturals offer could specifically benefit me.”

Baghdatis uses the Ultimate Omega-D3 Sport to aid his joints. He explains that it is like “oiling a machine”—helping him to recover better, especially after strenuous workouts. “I cannot go without it now because it makes such a difference for me on a daily basis,” he said.

By adding omega-3 into his regimen, he even feels improvements in his focus. As far as the Nordic Probiotic Sport, Baghdatis uses it mainly after workouts, “It allows me to absorb the good nutrients and vitamins of my meals and good things that I eat throughout the day.”

The relationship between the veteran tour player and Nordic Naturals however, is built on more than just science. “I feel like we are a family,” he said.

With their corporate headquarters based in Watsonville, Calif., a small town in Santa Cruz County, and their commitment to remain involved and active in the community, Nordic Naturals’ mission stresses the importance of transparency. It is this value-driven purpose that facilitates their lasting promise to deliver a quality product and promote healthy lifestyles all around the world.

Last year, Baghdatis had a chance to visit the headquarters and what stood out to him the most was the involvement and dedication of each team member, demonstrating the core values that the company stands for. “It was actually an honor for me to start working with Nordic, and the fact that there is trust and understanding on both sides made it very easy to partner together,” he said.

Nordic Naturals founder, Joar Opheim, is an absolute tennis and health fanatic, so it was a clear decision for the company to get involved in the Aptos Challenger over a decade ago, originally as a corporate sponsor.

The Challenger’s memories and traditions of the past three decades are only possible thanks to the loyal community support that keeps this tournament running year after year. It is with this in mind that Nordic Naturals takes over the role as the title sponsor this year.

With their growing name recognition in the tennis world, Nordic Naturals' passion for health and tennis is inseparable by providing the necessary nutrients to keep players, like Marcos Baghdatis at the top of their fitness, ultimately maximizing his success on the ATP tour. It is success stories like these that make the new Aptos title sponsor, Nordic Naturals, a perfect fit.

Seascope's lasting relationships both locally and with the tennis community at large have only added to the tight-knit culture of an event already holding 29 consecutive years of rich history, the record for the longest running men's Challenger in the U.S.

A Shared Passion for Tennis...

By Hannah Stone

A shared passion for tennis and meaningful relationships has sparked yet another local collaboration revolving around the Nordic Naturals Challenger presented by Santa Cruz County Bank, an event that has been running for 29 consecutive years.

Santa Cruz County Bank's mission to make a lasting commitment to the community commenced the moment they opened their doors in 2004. Since then, Santa Cruz County Bank has been recognized for its leadership and volunteerism. On any given day you will find their employees and directors dedicating their time by serving on local nonprofit boards and committees, coaching athletic teams, fundraising, and reinvesting in the community.

As a local business and as residents themselves, they understand that the strength of the community and our local economy directly affects the livelihood of everyone they serve. SCCB is committed to strengthening and building the community. Supporting the Aptos Challenger is one example of their community reinvestment, "We are proud to partner with Seascope Sports Club to produce the Challenger which benefits numerous non-profit and charitable organizations in our community" said Mary Anne Carson, SSCB Director of Marketing.

A well-recognized community leader, SSCB is also known for its fervent employee giving and volunteerism programs, so intense that the bank has its own dedicated director of community relations. Through a unique community service program, each of their employees is given an opportunity to donate 40 hours annually toward community service for charitable organizations within the market area, paid for by the bank. Fridays are deemed Community Giving Fridays, a program that supports the local nonprofit charitable organization of each branch's choosing.

With five banking offices throughout the county in Aptos, Capitola, Santa Cruz, Scotts Valley and Watsonville to serve you, their motto states, "Put your money where your life is" and they invite you to join them. "This is our heart and soul; a bank established for the community, and 100% focused on serving the community," Carson said.

Seascope Sports Club, a long time customer of Santa Cruz County Bank, is thrilled at the chance to take its partnership with this community leader to another level through the Nordic Naturals Challenger. Without support from sponsors like Santa Cruz County Bank there would be no tournament. There is no better way to come together than by joining in on the fun of witnessing world-class tennis and future super stars in an intimate and friendly environment fueled through local involvement. ●

These stories of community ties, tradition and family run deep here at the Aptos Challenger just as they do with Baghdatis back in his home country, Cyprus.

“Being at home is very rewarding and rejuvenates me,” Baghdatis said.

Following the Citi Open, Baghdatis was able to return home to spend quality time with his wife, Karolina, a former WTA player, and daughters, Zahara and India. “Being at home is very rewarding and rejuvenates me, and gets me ready to go back on tour with renewed energy every time,” he said.

Baghdatis and his wife hope to teach their young ones tennis someday if they are interested. Three-year-old Zahara is starting to pick up a racquet and India, less than one-year-old, “is doing amazing,” he beamed. “She is a bundle of joy and growing very fast.”

Consistent collaboration over the years with several charity organizations on the island of Cyprus has provided Baghdatis the opportunity to raise funds for programs that help children get involved in sports. This work has also inspired Baghdatis to start his own organization one day alongside his wife to promote sport and wellness in the lives of local youth. “We want to aid children and develop sports in their lives, as this was an important part of our upbringing and we know that having sports in a young child’s life can be such a benefit.”

Capping the year with a full hard-court schedule followed by several tournaments in Europe and Asia, the veteran Cypriot steps onto the court with the same passion and determination he possessed over 10 years ago. 2016 is no exception, “I have had a few matches this year that I wish I could have another shot at, such as the five-set battle against Tsonga in Paris,” Baghdatis said. “But these experiences have made me even more hungry to keep working for success.” ●

USTA PRO CIRCUIT RETURNS TO APTOS, CONCLUDES MEN'S US OPEN WILD CARD CHALLENGE

The Nordic Naturals Challenger presented by Santa Cruz County Bank returns to Aptos for the 29th consecutive year. It is the second-longest running men's event on the USTA Pro Circuit, trailing only Little Rock, Ark., which has been taking place for 35 years. The tournament increased its prize money from $75,000 to $100,000 in 2012 and is one of five $100,000 Challengers on the USTA Pro Circuit calendar this year.

Aptos is the last of three consecutive men's hard-court tournaments (joining $50,000 Challengers in Binghamton, N.Y., and Lexington, Ky.) that are part of the US Open Wild Card Challenge, which will award a men's and women's wild card into the 2016 US Open based on USTA Pro Circuit results. Along with these three men's tournaments, the women's events that were part of the challenge include the University of the Pacific $50,000 USTA Pro Circuit Challenger in Stockton, Calif., held the week of July 11; the $50,000 FSP Gold River Women's Challenger in Sacramento, Calif., held the week of July 18; and the $50,000 Kentucky Bank Tennis Championships in Lexington, held the week of July 25.

The American man and American woman who earn the most ATP and WTA ranking points at two of the three selected USTA Pro Circuit hard-court events will receive USTA wild cards to compete in the singles main draws of the US Open, which will be held Monday, Aug. 29, to Sunday, Sept. 11. Only players who do not receive direct entry into the US Open are eligible for the wild cards.

Bjorn Fratangelo has competed in all three Grand Slam main draws this year, winning a round at the French Open.

This tournament will be streamed live on www.procircuit.usta.com. To follow the action, download the USTA Pro Circuit's phone app for smartphones and tablets by searching "procircuit" in the Apple and Google Play stores.

Notable players competing in Aptos include:

Bjorn Fratangelo, who made his French Open main-draw debut this year after earning a main-draw wild card into the French Open by winning the 2016 USTA Pro Circuit Roland Garros Wild Card Challenge, where he won his first-round match over Sam Querrey in Paris for his first career Grand Slam win. Fratangelo finished this year's Roland Garros Wild Card Challenge with a title at the $50,000 Challenger in Savannah, Ga., and by reaching the semifinals at the $100,000 Challenger in Sarasota, Fla. Fratangelo won the French Open boys' singles title in 2011, becoming the first American to win the Roland Garros boys' title since John McEnroe in 1977. This year, he qualified for the 2016 Australian Open – his first appearance in a Grand Slam main draw outside of the US Open – as well as Wimbledon. He also qualified for the ATP events in Indian Wells, where he pushed world No. 1 Novak Djokovic to three sets in the second round, and Miami. Fratangelo made his Grand Slam main-draw debut at the 2015 US Open after winning the USTA Pro Circuit's US Open Wild Card Challenge last summer. He has won 10 USTA Pro Circuit and ITF Circuit singles titles over the last three years and broke into the Top 100 this June. Fratangelo, who is named after 11-time Grand Slam champion Bjorn Borg, is coached by USTA National Coach Stanford Boster.

Stefan Kozlov, 18, who won the first two USTA Pro Circuit singles titles of his career this year at the $25,000 Futures events in Los Angeles in January and Little Rock, Ark., in April; he also won his first-round match at the ATP grass-court event in Newport, R.I., this July, won an ITF Circuit event in Canada in March, and captured the doubles title at the $50,000 Challenger in Winnetka, Ill., in June. Kozlov reached a career-high ranking of No. 159 in the world in July and is now listed at No. 161. A junior standout, he peaked at No. 2 in the world junior rankings in 2014, when he reached boys' finals at both Wimbledon and the Australian Open, as well as quarterfinals at the US Open and French Open. At the All England Club, he fell to 2014 USTA Boys' 18s national champion Noah Rubin in the first all-American Wimbledon boys' final since 1977. Also in 2014, Kozlov won the prestigious Orange Bowl singles and doubles titles, and in the pro ranks, he reached the final of the $100,000 USTA Pro Circuit Challenger in Sacramento, Calif., losing to former Top 20 player Sam Querrey. In advancing to the Sacramento final at age 16, Kozlov became the youngest American to reach a Challenger final since Andre Agassi in 1986. Kozlov transitioned to primarily pro events in 2015, competing in the main draw of the ATP's Memphis Open and winning his first USTA Pro Circuit Challenger doubles title in Maui, Hawaii. He also won his first ITF singles title in Belarus and served as a practice partner for the U.S. Davis Cup team in Glasgow, Scotland. Kozlov trains both with his father, Andrei, at his dad's tennis academy in Pembroke Pines, Fla., and at the USTA Training Center Headquarters in Boca Raton, Fla. He has also practiced, on occasion, with Novak Djokovic and other top pros.

US Open Wild Card Challenge leader Ernesto Escobedo, who won his first USTA Pro Circuit singles title at the $50,000 Challenger in Lexington to take the lead. Also this year, he qualified for ATP events in Washington D.C., the Netherlands, and Nottingham, Great Britain, where he won his first-round match. Escobedo is ranked a career-high No. 205 in the world.

Mitchell Krueger, a former junior standout who reached the final of the $50,000 Challenger in Binghamton, N.Y., to take an early lead in the US Open Wild Card Challenge (he is now in second place following Lexington). Krueger won his first USTA Pro Circuit event in 2015 at the $15,000 Futures in Los Angeles. Also last year, he reached the quarterfinals at $50,000 Challengers in Savannah, Ga., and Tallahassee, Fla., and the final at the $15,000 Futures in Wichita, Kan. In 2014, he won the doubles title at an ITF Pro Circuit event in Australia and reached the singles quarterfinals or better at six events around the world. Krueger was the top-ranked American junior boy in 2012, peaking at No. 5 in the world junior rankings. He advanced to the boys' singles semifinals at the French Open and Wimbledon in 2012 and turned pro that July. He captured his first pro singles title in 2013 while competing overseas at a clay-court ITF Circuit event in the Netherlands. Krueger comes from a tennis-playing family; his father played college tennis at Texas A&M, and his mother is a tennis coach and played at Louisiana Tech. He is coached by USTA National Coach Stanford Boster.

Daniel Nguyen, who competed in qualifying at Wimbledon, the French Open and the Australian Open this year. He played in his first-ever Grand Slam singles qualifying draw at the 2015 US Open, where he won his first-round match. Nguyen was a former standout college player at USC and holds eight USTA Pro Circuit and ITF Circuit singles titles, including two in 2015. In doubles, he has won six combined USTA Pro Circuit and ITF Circuit doubles titles. Nguyen competed throughout the world in 2015, making stops in Korea, Great Britain, Malaysia, Vietnam and India. He competed in the main draw of the men's doubles event at the 2009 US Open, where he reached the second round.

Alex Kuznetsov, the USTA Pro Circuit veteran who has competed in all four Grand Slam events, advancing to the second round of the Australian Open in 2007. Kuznetsov peaked at No. 120 in the world in 2013 after winning the 2013 Har-Tru USTA Pro Circuit Wild Card Challenge to earn a spot in the French Open main draw, qualifying for that year's Wimbledon and winning the $50,000 USTA Pro Circuit Challenger in Binghamton, N.Y. In 2014, he qualified for and reached the quarterfinals of the ATP event in Memphis and qualified for the main draw at Wimbledon, and last year he reached the quarterfinals of the $100,000 USTA Pro Circuit Challenger in Dallas and competed in Australian Open qualifying. Kuznetsov won his sixth USTA Pro Circuit/ITF Circuit singles title earlier this year in Canada to go along with 11 USTA Pro Circuit/ITF Circuit doubles titles. He also qualified for back-to-back ATP events in Newport, R.I., and Washington D.C. this summer. As a junior player, Kuznetsov reached the 2004 French Open boys' singles final (falling to Gael Monfils). Kuznetsov is a native of Kiev, Ukraine, where his grandfather was a handball champion.

Sekou Bangoura, who won the second USTA Pro Circuit singles title of his career in January 2014 at the $10,000 Futures in Plantation, Fla. He also won an ITF-level event in the Dominican Republic in 2015 and captured the USTA Pro Circuit Collegiate Series event in Winston-Salem, N.C., this month. Bangoura holds 14 USTA Pro Circuit and ITF Circuit doubles titles, including the $50,000 Challenger in Winnetka, Ill., this year. Bangoura was named a doubles All-American during his sophomore year at the University of Florida after reaching the doubles semifinals at the 2011 NCAA tournament. He turned pro shortly thereafter.

Nicolas Meister, who has captured six USTA Pro Circuit doubles titles this year, giving him 16 USTA Pro Circuit/ITF Circuit doubles titles for his career. He cracked the Top 200 in the doubles rankings in June. In addition to his doubles success, Meister holds four ITF singles titles, winning two in Israel this spring and two in Mexico in 2013. Meister graduated from UCLA in 2012 with All-America honors in singles that year. He also earned All-America doubles honors during the 2009-10 season.

Notable players competing in qualifying include:

Mackenzie McDonald, a three-time singles All-American who recently turned pro after his junior year at UCLA and who made college tennis history this year by sweeping both the NCAA singles and doubles titles, the first men's player in 15 years to do so. McDonald also finished this season ranked No. 1 in singles and doubles in the ITA collegiate rankings. In 2015, he won the American Collegiate Invitational, a tournament held at the US Open for college players. McDonald holds three USTA Pro Circuit doubles titles, won each year from 2013-15.

Michael Mmoh, who is regarded as one of the brightest young American prospects, drawing comparisons to Gael Monfils for his athleticism and power. Mmoh peaked at No. 2 in the junior rankings in 2015 after reaching the singles semifinals at the junior French Open and the quarterfinals at the junior US Open; he also competed in the junior Australian Open and Wimbledon in 2015, reaching the doubles semifinals at both tournaments. Mmoh finished the 2014 junior season by going 19-2 in international-level play, winning two ITF junior singles titles, and he won the prestigious Orange Bowl doubles title with fellow American Stefan Kozlov. Also in 2014, Mmoh went 5-0 in singles to help lead the U.S. to the Junior Davis Cup title, and he won his first career USTA Pro Circuit singles title at the $15,000 Futures in Brownsville, Texas. He added two additional USTA Pro Circuit titles in 2015, at the $15,000 Futures events in Godfrey, Ill., and Houston. This year, Mmoh qualified for the ATP's Memphis Open and competed in the main draw of the ATP event in Miami, while also winning the $25,000 USTA Pro Circuit Futures in Bakersfield, Calif. Mmoh trains with coach Glenn Weiner in Nick Bollettieri's program at the IMG Academy in Bradenton, Fla. He is the son of former ATP professional and Nigerian Olympian Tony Mmoh.

Evan King, a 2013 graduate of the University of Michigan, who was a three-time All-American (2011-13) and the Big Ten Athlete of the Year in 2012 and 2013. King owns the program record for most combined career singles and doubles wins (196), and he ranks third all-time on Michigan's singles wins list with 117 victories. In the pro ranks, King has captured 14 USTA Pro Circuit and ITF Circuit doubles titles, including the $25,000 USTA Pro Circuit Futures in Los Angeles earlier this year. This June, he won the singles title at the $10,000 futures in Buffalo, N.Y., while also capturing an ITF Circuit title in Japan earlier in the year. In 2015, he won his first career USTA Pro Circuit singles title at the $15,000 Futures in Edwardsville, Ill., and later in the year, he added titles at the $10,000 Futures in Birmingham, Ala., and at an ITF Circuit singles tournament in Zimbabwe. In 2014, King served as a practice partner for the U.S. Davis Cup team during its World Group Playoff against Slovakia in Chicago

Peter Kobelt, who graduated from Ohio State in 2014, finishing his college career as just the fourth player in program history to earn All-America honors four times. He also became the program's all-time career doubles win leader with 142 and reached the doubles final at the 2014 NCAA championships with Kevin Metka. Kobelt has won two ITF Circuit singles titles in Israel, as well as eight USTA Pro Circuit and ITF Circuit doubles titles.

Clay Thompson, who graduated from UCLA in 2014, where he was the top-ranked college player from January through June 2014. He also earned All-America honors in singles and was named the 2014 Intercollegiate Tennis Association National Senior Player of the Year. In 2015, Thompson won his first ITF-level singles title, in Mexico, and reached the quarterfinals or better at three consecutive USTA Pro Circuit events in July. He closed out the year by qualifying for and reaching the semifinals at the $50,000 Challenger in Champaign, Ill. This year, he qualified for the $100,000 Challenger in Dallas and has competed overseas in Egypt and Israel, reaching the singles final at an event in Egypt.

Many current and former ATP World Tour stars have found success in Aptos.

Bob and Mike Bryan, who won Aptos doubles titles in 1998 and 2000, have won 16 Grand Slam tournament titles together and hold the all-time Open Era record of 112 men's doubles titles. The Bryans have also represented Team USA in Davis Cup since 2003 and captured gold for the U.S. at the 2012 London Olympics. Bob won the Aptos singles title in 2000.

2005 singles champion Andy Murray, who peaked at No. 2 in the world in August 2009 and has won 38 career ATP World Tour singles titles. Murray won Wimbledon in 2013 and 2016 and the US Open in 2012, in addition to capturing gold for Great Britain at the 2012 London Olympics.

2012 singles champion Steve Johnson, is ranked a career-high No. 21 in the world after winning his first ATP singles title this June in Birmingham, Great Britain, reaching the fourth round of Wimbledon this year, and advancing to the semifinals at the ATP's Citi Open in Washington D.C. Last year, Johnson reached his first career ATP final in Vienna in October, while reaching three additional ATP semifinals. He also made his debut for the U.S. Davis Cup team in 2015 against Uzbekistan, winning the doubles rubber with Sam Querrey after the duo advanced to the US Open doubles semifinals together. Johnson will be representing the U.S. at the Olympics in Rio.

Patrick Rafter, the 1993 Aptos singles champion, peaked at No. 1 in the world in 1999 after winning back-to-back US Opens in 1997 and 1998. Now retired, Rafter finished his Hall of Fame career with 11 ATP World Tour singles titles and 10 doubles titles Daniel Nestor, the 1995 Aptos singles champion, peaked at No. 1 in the world in doubles in 2002 and has won 90 career doubles titles, including two titles this year. He has won eight Grand Slam doubles titles (the French Open four times, Wimbledon two times and the US Open and Australian Open once). He also won the gold medal in doubles at the 2000 Olympics in Sydney.

Wildcards to Watch

By Hannah Stone

Throughout the years, what has remained the same about the Nordic Naturals Challenger presented by Santa Cruz County Bank is the opportunity for both the local community and the tennis community to come together and experience world-class tennis in an extremely intimate environment. In past years, Seascapes has hosted tennis legends in the beginning stages of their career including Michael Chang, Patrick Rafter, Andy Murray, John Isner, the Bryan brothers and many more.

Recently, some of the best tennis at the Aptos Challenger was played by those granted a wildcard, who proceeded to exceed the expectations of the crowd. Players like former world No. 2 Tommy Haas, 18-year-old American Taylor Fritz, now ranked No. 60, and American Mitchell Krueger, current runner-up of the U.S. Open Wildcard Challenge, all at different stages in their career, came into the Aptos main draw as dark horses.

Filling their shoes in 2016 are some of the most anticipated young Americans taking the tour by storm, starting with Aptos.

Last month, the No. 1 college player in the nation, Mackenzie “Mackie” McDonald announced he was surrendering one last year of eligibility at UCLA to turn professional. This came as no surprise after McDonald captured the NCAA championships in both singles and doubles being the first player to win both events in the same season since 2001. Finishing the year with a 22-1 overall singles record, the 21-year-old All-American singles and doubles player was named the 2016 ITA National Men’s College Player of the Year and the Pac-12 Player of the Year for the second straight season. McDonald, from Piedmont, Calif. made his Aptos debut in 2014 as a wildcard.

Another player making his imprint on the college scene is freshman and No. 1 Stanford player Tom Fawcett. Fawcett was proclaimed the Pac-12 Freshman of the Year after posting a 14-7 singles record at the No. 1 position. The 20 year old finished the 2015 season at No. 35 in the ITA rankings. Since 2015, Fawcett has appeared in several Challenger events. Aptos is a chance for him to carry over his recent success as a top-tier college competitor into the ATP tour.

Reilly Opelka

Isner, 18-year-old Reilly Opelka turned professional last year. Opelka’s notable junior career reached a climax when he defeated junior No. 1 at the time, Taylor Fritz to clinch the 2015 boy’s Wimbledon Championship. Just one week before traveling to Aptos, Opelka won his first career ATP match at the 2016 BB&T Atlanta Open. He went on to shock No. 27 Kevin Anderson in the round of 16 to advance to the quarterfinals. No matter his end result in Atlanta, Opelka’s breakthrough wins will reap a newfound confidence at the Nordic Naturals Challenger this week.

Surrounded by friends, family and those equally passionate about the game of tennis, the Nordic Naturals Challenger, for the 29th year, is not only a place to create lasting memories with professional players on-the-rise, it is a once and a lifetime opportunity to witness a future American superstar. ●
